Ordinarily the reporter of these festive entertainments is confined to a list of the fair women and brave men who attend them, their costumes, the music and a special mention of the orchestra and caterer. But the Point Pleasant society chronicler disdains to be fettered by any such restrictions. No such pent up Utica contracts his powers. He goes beyond the mere outward appearances and tells us of the mental condition of the articipants. "Ah," he says, "the soul of is tuned in synchrony with the glad thrill of the dreamy music. ## PARKERSBURG LETTER.

A Rearney Greenbackers Address— Amusements of the Season—Where Was Despard When the Light Went Out— Judicial Proceedings.
PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Feb. 9th.

J. H. Randall, of Ohio, a Greenbacker

J. H. Randall, of Ohio, a Greenbacker of the Kearney sort, addressed his people at the Court House Saturday night. His hearers hung on to his blazing words like grim death to a dead African, and when the hat was passed, handed out the shekels quite recklessly. No invectives are too strong for the advocates of Greenbackism in this community. On the contrary, the fouler and more profane the language the greater the applause; the more twists and turns and wriggles the speaker is capable of giving, the greater and more powerful he is in their eyes. Kearney should be sent for at once.

We are in the height of the amusement season. Theatres, masquerades, balls, cantal and the conditions and the rest are all that a frugal taste can desire. But Mr. Hart thinks thattea is not the right beverage at breakfast. It is a stimulant to the nerves, and the nerves should not be stimulated so early in the day. To be sure a pipe afterward should make that all right, but people who do not smoke, if they would be truly wise, should avoid tea at breakfast. The French are found and a great mystery. They begin the day with a roll and some coffee (also a "nerve stimulated should avoid tea at breakfast. The French are in their eyes. Kearney should be sent for at once.

he is in their eyes. Kearney should be sent for at once.

We are in the height of the amusement season. Theatres, masquerades, balls, cantata, and so on, are all the rage, and our people seem to be in the humor to patronize them quite liberally. This week we had the last performance of the Cantata of Joseph, and a masquerade ball by the Germania Society on the same evening (Monday). On Wednesday night Hi Henry's minstrels will regale us, and on the succeeding night the naughty Rentz troupe. This company is made up wholly lof legs, and as "legs are trumps" in this section of the moral vineyard, it is predicted that there will be a jam in Rose Hall on that occasion. Last Thursday night we had "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with every little of Uncle Tom and a great deal of "Topsy," who was the sole redeeming character of the play. When we get a decent hall, we can then imagine ourselves metropolitanized.

"Where was Deepard when the light decent hall, we can then imagine ourselves metropolitanized.

"Where was Despard when the light went out?" is a question that sorely perplexeth the l'arkersburger. We are in total darkness, so to speak, with fair prospects of remaining so for a long time to come. Not having the fear of Edison, or the devil before his eyes, "Charley," who has furnished us with light for ly these prays, wasts, has struck "Charley," who has furnished us with light for lo! these many years, has struck for higher wages, and is determined to keep striking until the city dads come down with the requisite amount of cash for the lighting of our lamps. Our city dads are as equally determined on setting dada are as equally determined on setting their own figures—all praise to them—and thus it is that we are inveloped in Egyptian darkness. We either have to fly to Edison or a Baltimore gasoline compay as a last resort, and the probabilities are that the latter will "catch our custom" before long. With the hogs running about the streets in the daytime, and total darkness covering the face of nature at night, we very much have the appearance of a straggling country town of two hundred inhabitants.

County Court is in session; been so for County Court is in session; been so for a week. We've had a good siege of court during the past—let me see—five or six weeks, or more—and the legal gentlemen of are by this time certainly very much wearied. This court draws pretty well when there is a "small" case on hand, but at other times is a "d—d barren ideality" [quotation], with not so much "life" about the state of the section of the s (quotation), with not so much "lile" about it as to draw half so well as a month-old mustard plaster. A sensation was created in the United States Court room last week in which your learned and handsome in which your learned and handsome leweler, contemplates building a fine brick residence and store-room on Main street in the United States Court room last week in which your learned and handsome counsellor, Davenport, was brought prominently to the front. Twas during the progress of a railroad suit, in which Judge Jackson had displayed, as the young attorney thought, partiality for the B. and O. Company. There is no use." fearlessly spoke Davenport, "to try to do anything when it is plainly evident that the United States Court and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad are working together!" This was rather a bold speech, and of course rules were issued against the daring young man by His Honor, the Judge.

THE experiment of connecting the Dartmouth College Church by telephones with residences in the village and at Norwich, has proved very successful. The services of the church are heard with great distinctness. How would it do to establish a similar connection between the students' pains that he was unable to preach. Do not, my beloved husband, let the love of country, fame and honor, let you forget you have one. Without you, I would think them all empty shadows.
You will say this is not the language of a faithful wife, one I know you esteem & love sincerely; but O! how many pangs, how many heart-rending sighs, has your absence cost me. My time passes heavily, & I am not in good health, but I hope to see you once more on this globe, & after this frail life ends, be with you in happier climes, where I shall experience no more painful separation, & then I shall be at rest. I feel a foretaste of the joys that are to the virtuous souls. Gracious God, help me to pray for your happiness. I was delighted to learn you were pleased with Mr. Blackman and the other two clergymen, and the society in general.
Our little Andrew is well, the most affectionate little darling on earth. Often does he ask me in bed not to cry, sweet papa in the continuous of the extreme cold nights he got a little tyext, and said he wondered his papa did not come home and sleep with him in his big bed. On Thursday last, mamma, said he, let's go to Nashville & see if he is there. I told him where you were gone. He said, don't cry sweet mamma' you can't think how that has supported me in my trials. I wish I was with you—vain wish. Pray, my dear, write to me often. It's a cordial, it's balm to my mind in lonesome hours. I treasure them up as a miser does his gold. Good and Bad Breakfasts.

Mr. Ernest Hart has been saying som very sensible things about breakfast in The Sanitary Record. In few things do civ ilized nations differ from each other mor than in the arrangement of breakfast. To eat a Scotch breakfast, for example, on requires to have passed some time i nountainous air and in active exercis Given these conditions, the porridge, th Finnan haddocks, the omlettes, the han the trout, the cold grouse, the marmalade cream; the tea and coffee, and the rest ar exorbitant second breaktasts no Engish-man can hope to learn. "Breakfast should be digestible, warm, abundant, unexcit-ing, nourishing." Eggs, bacon and toast, day after day for all one's life, are abund-ant, and may be nourishing, but are only too certainly "unexciting." Mr. Hart suggests porridge as good for breakfast, and so it is if the other items of a Scotch breakfast are to follow. By itself it is not ever filling at the price. Here a Scotch breakfast are to follow. By itself it is not very filling at the price. Here hominy has a slight advantage over 'the Northern dish, but hominy is still less exciting. Like the buckwheat cakes of a distinguished artist, it "gets a little monotonous." Hominy is eaten with milk and sugar, but it is still better with salt and pepper, of anything that will give it character. In breakfast we are all too nuch the slaves of routine.

A So-Called Expose of Masonry A Boston dispatch states that J. F. Stoddard and D. P. Rathbone, Methodist itiated a'candidate in the first degree, using the pulpit platform as a lodge room, and claiming to exhibit all the ritual. Friday evening a large and excited crowd attended the church, when Rathbone made a bitter address against Masonry, claiming it was organized infidelity. He then proceeded to work the degree of "Master Mason" amid a scene of disorder heretofore unknown in Boston church history. A large number of the police was necessary to keep the crowd in order. They hooted, jeered and snowballed the preacher, and the wildest uproar prevailed. Comparative order was restored after a while, but the minister was frequently interrupted and hooted down before he concluded his address. errupted and hoot luded his address
